

March 2010

Parallell presents new album "Everyday" by the Swedish jazz trio Lekverk.

Recorded entirely at their own homes Lekverk redefines the concept of home recording and create fresh and innovative music out of their everyday surroundings. (PA 006-2)

Lekverk seems to constantly surprise their audience. They've managed to produce an album that is as witty, clever and different, as it is straightforward and comprehensible, all of this within the context of everyday music. Few other jazz groups combine instruments such as harmonium and 80's Korg synthesizers with a sofa and a kitchen sink. The result is a perfectly sincere music, displaying a great, unusual imagination with a touch of humour.

Since the release of their much critically acclaimed debut album "21st Century Jump" (2008) Lekverk have played spectacular concerts all over Scandinavia winning the liking of both audience and media.
